

GALILEO QUIZ

Find the Getting Started links on the right hand side of the GALILEO homepage.

Using the information found under the What can I do in GALILEO link, answer the following questions:

- 1) GALILEO provides you with access to what?
- 2) What does using the Search tab provide you with the opportunity to do?
- 3) What are at least two ways you can limit your search?
- 4) The View link on the Search Results page shows what?
- 5) What other search method besides using the Search tab is available to find databases, articles and journals?

Using the information found under the Finding Articles in GALILEO link, answer the following questions:

- 1) Where are some of the articles found in the GALILEO databases originally published?
- 2) The Search tab can be used to find articles in how many different databases at one time?
- 3) Which tab provides options for a more focused search and for more limiters?
- 4) Besides limiting to peer-reviewed or full-text articles, what other limiter is available?
- 5) The Search Results page indicates what?

Using the information found under the Finding Peer-Reviewed Articles in GALILEO link, answer the following questions:

- 1) What does peer-reviewed mean?
- 2) What other terms mean the same thing as peer-reviewed?
- 3) Why might some databases not have peer-reviewed limiters?
- 4) What are two kinds of materials you will not see if you limit to only peer-reviewed articles?