Meningitis Information

In accordance with Georgia House Bill 521, Chapter 12 of Title 31, all students living in college owned housing must EITHER receive a vaccine for bacterial meningitis OR indicate that they have reviewed information about the risks of bacterial meningitis and have already been vaccinated or choose not to be vaccinated.

What is Meningococcal disease?

1. Meningococcal disease is a serious disease that can lead to death within only a few hours of onset; one in ten cases is fatal; and one in seven survivors of the disease is left with a severe disability, such as the loss of a limb, mental retardation, paralysis, deafness, or seizures;
2. Meningococcal disease is contagious but a largely preventable infection of the spinal cord fluid and the fluid that surrounds the brain;
3. Scientific evidence suggests that college students living in dormitory facilities are at a moderately increased risk of contracting meningococcal disease; and
4. Immunization against meningococcal disease will decrease the risk of the disease.

Falsification of information on this application may result in revocation of your privilege to live in a college residence hall. Acceptance of your residence hall application does not confirm your admission to Middle Georgia, therefore you must apply and be accepted by Middle Georgia College in order to enroll and live in the residence hall. You may check your admission status at www.mgc.edu.

Admissions policies, activities, services, and facilities of the College do not exclude any person on the basis of race, color, age, sex, religion, national origin or disability. Middle Georgia College is an Affirmative Action Program Institution. Any individual who requires assistance under the College’s Affirmative Action Program should contact the designated Title IX or Section 504 Coordinator: Title IX Contact (for non-students): Director of Human Resources, Jackson Hall, 478-934-3082; Title IX Contact (for students): Registrar, Grace Hall, 478-934-3036; Section 504 Contact (students and non-students): Director of Student Services, Jackson Hall, 478-934-3023. If accepted for admission, I agree to abide by all rules and regulations of Middle Georgia College.
